Natural Resources Conservation Areas

Natural Resources Conservation Areas are lands identified as having high priority for the conservation of natural systems, wildlife, and recreational values; prime natural features of the Washington landscape, inland or coastal wetlands, significant shores, estuaries, aquatic sites, or important geological features; examples of native ecological communities and evironmentally significant sites threatened with conversion to incompatible or ecologically irreversable uses.

Natural Area Preserves

Natural Area Preserves provide for the protection of natural lands, together with the plants and animals living there in natural ecological systems, which are valuable for the purpose of scientific research and teaching, as habitats of rare and vanishing species, as places of natural, historic, and natural interest and scenic beauty, and as living museums of the original heritage of the state.

Recreation

Three camping areas totaling 15 acres are managed for primitive camping. Approximately 20 miles of trails & converted roads are open for hiking. Bicycles, pack animals, and all motorized and non-motorized vehicles are not allowed.
